

Timmy ate lots of bread. He wanted to give bread to the bear, but this was just a teddy bear. He picked a pear from a nearby tree. He gave the pear to the bear. Of all things, the bear ate it!

When the bear ate the pear, he sat up slowly. The pear must have had magic in it. Soon he was running in the grass. Timmy jumped up and down. He was glad to have the bear play with him.

“Wait for me,” called Timmy. “I cannot run as quickly as you can.”

The bear stopped running. Timmy put the spread on the bear’s back. Then with Timmy riding on his back, the bear went up the path.

The path went up a steep hill. It was hard but Timmy and the bear made it. They stopped at the top to rest. On the way down the bear tripped. Timmy and the bear rolled down the hill. The bear slid into a huge rock. He was hurt!
